Evidence
of Marshall.

The defendant then introduced John C. Marshall as a witness who testified that he acted as clerk in the Bank of Illinois at Shawneetown, Illinois from 1842. and was acquainted with the manner of doing business in said Bank. defendant then read witness to examine the note and state whether or not it had ever been discounted by the Bank. The plaintiff objected to the witness answering the question and to his giving testimony as to the discounting of the note upon the ground that the Books of the Bank, afford a higher evidence. The witness then explained to the court that notes offered for discount by the Bank, were listed on a Book which was used by the board, and as the board acted when a note was agreed to be discounted, the letter "D" was placed in the Book opposite to the name of the maker and the letter "B" was placed opposite to the name when the note was rejected, that after the action of the directors the notes discounted, were taken and numbered by endorsement on the back of each note and charged or credited on the Bank books, by the number. The court then permitted the witness to testify to the Jury - and after examining the note such as to state whether it had the marks of a discounted note or not, the witness testified that the note was not numbered or marked as a discounted note, that the rule was universal as far as he knew to number all notes discounted, and charge or enter them on the Books by their number. witness testified that notes not discounted were often left in the Bank, and were not lifted or taken away by the persons entitled to them, that when he left the Bank, a large number of such notes were remaining on hand not having been delivered to the persons entitled to them; To which decision of the Court in permitting the witness to testify in relation to the discounting of such note, the plaintiff excepted.

The Plaintiff then read as evidence to the jury a certified copy of an order of the board of directors as follows.

The Supreme Court Nov. 1854.

E. Z. Ryan Surviving Assignee of Bank of Illinois against Appeal from Gallatin Charles Guenode

Actions of debt upon a promissory note issued by Guenod & others to the Bank of Illinois dated 16 December 1841.

Plen Nib Nibit. and notice of special verdict to be given in evidence on the trial. -

Verdict and judgment for Defendants, - Motion for new trial denied, - Exceptions, & appeal to this court,

upon the trial of the case the following was in evidence

1. The note declared on.
2. The deed of Assignment executed by the President Directors & Co of the Bank of Illinois to Galatine & Ryan as Assignees under the provisions of the Statute authorizing the appointment of Assignees with a copy of the Resolution of the Board of Directors accepting the provisions of said Statute.

The defendant then introduced John C. Marshall as a Witness, who testified that he acted as clerk in the Bank of Illinois at Shawanonego several years previous to 1842 and was acquainted with the manner of giving business in the Bank. - Defendant then took Witness to examine the note and state whether or not it had ever been discounted by the Bank. -

The objection to the Witness concerning the discount, and to his giving testimony as to the discounting of the note upon the ground that the Books of the Bank afforded higher evidence.

The Witness then explained to the Court that notes offered for discount, were listed on a Book, which was used by the Board, and as the Board acted, when a note was discounted the letter "D" was placed opposite to the name of the maker, and the letter "P" when rejected. That after the action of the Directors the notes discounted were taken and endorsed by endorsement on the back, and changed or credited on the Books by their members, - the court then permitted the Witness to testify to the facts to which plaintiff excepted.

The plaintiff then read as evidence, a copy of an order of the Board of Directors of 15th December 1841. by which they agreed to release, the share of the Bank, upon certain real estate mortgaged by Bedford & Salt marsh ~~and~~ which they had purchased from David Guard one of the makers of the note sent over, - on condition that David Guard would give his note to the Bank, payable at 7 months and bearing 8 percent interest from date until paid for $268. 83/100. to be signed by Timothy Guard & Charles Guard, (being half the amount of a note due the Bank by Bedford & Salt marsh), ~~and~~ ~~the~~ the note to be taken by the Bank as collateral security instead of the mortgage for the payment of the amount on Bedford & Salt marsh's note, and to be collected from said Guard or his security, if not ^{collectable} ~~collectable~~ from Bedford & Sathmarshs out of the property mortgaged to the Bank, and which was purchased from John Ellis or out of their personal property.

The plaintiff also read in evidence, — ~~by a~~ stipulation signed by Bedford & Sathmarshs agreeing to the arrangement mentioned in the order of the Board. — Also a mortgage executed by Bedford & Sathmarshs to the Bank dated 4th June 1840 conveying several tracts of land as security for the payment of a note of $500, — with an ~~and~~ entry on the margin of the Record Book, showing a release of the mortgaged premises as agreed on by the Board.

The plaintiff then proved by Witness J. C. Marshall that Bedford and Sathmarshs left the country about the date of the transaction between the Bank and Grant, and as he understood insolvent, — the Report was, that they were largely in debt without means of payment.

The testimony being closed the plaintiff asked the Court to instruct the jury

That if they believe from the evidence, that the note was made, and that the act of assignment was innocent, as alleged in the declaration, the plaintiff is entitled to recover, unless it is proved that the note has been paid, or that the note was never accepted by the Bank, which the court refused and instructed the jury as follows: If the jury believe from the evidence that the defendant executed the note offered in evidence, to the Bank as charged, and that the note was assigned to the plaintiff by the act of assignment as charged, the verdict should be for the plaintiff. Unless they believe from the evidence
the Bank got possession thereof without circulating it, or giving any consideration therefor.

On request of defendant with the court instructions the jury as follows.

1. That to authorize a recovery in an action at law, the plaintiff must prove any material allegations in the declaration

2^d That when an Assignment is set forth in the declaration of the note sued on, the plea must prove the assignment as alleged, ~~and~~

3. That if the Jury believe, that the note sued on was held by the Bank, as collateral security for the debt of a third person, the Plaintiff should show that they could not collect the debt for which the said note was so taken or show some diligence to collect the same before the Jury came in for the Plaintiff

Verdict being for defendant, the plea asked for a new trial upon the following grounds.

1. The Verdict is contrary to the evidence and the right of the case

Second; The Court Erred in admitting the testimony of Marshall to prove that the note had never been discounted Third. The Court Erred in giving instructions asked for by defendant Fourth; The Court Erred in refusing to give the instructions asked by plff, and in giving instructions in lieu of those asked, -

Motion overruled and exceptions taken incorporating all the evidence in the cause, -

Errors.

1. The Court Erred in refusing to instruct the Jury as asked by plff and in giving an instruction, instead of the one asked for, -
2. The Court Erred in giving the instructions first, second, & Third, asked by Defendant.
3. The Court Erred in overruling the motion for New Trials
4. The Court Erred in permitting John C. Abersheale to testify in relation to the circumstances of the note, or in respect to the Question whether or not said note had been discounted
